THOROUGHLY DOCTORED.

But the Old Lady Was Slightly Off Re. garding the Disease.

While six Englishmen were waiting at a depot in a small town in Arkansas, in America, a colored woman came up and asked if any one was a doctor, his feet, a poultice on the middle, horse "Well!" "Wall, if dere's been any mistake doant let on to de ole man. Just skip it ober." The doctor went in and examined the patient and found he had a broken rib, and told him what to do for it. As he left the cabin the woman followed him out and exclaimed, "Fo the Lawd, doctah, but what a blessin' dat you dun come man for softenin' of de brain, an' if I hadn't cotched you to-day I was dun gwine to try to harden 'em up by mixin' sand wid his porridge!"

LOBSTERS AND CRABS.

Facts About the Creatures That Carry Their Jaws at Arm's Length.

There are many curious points about crabs and lobsters. Every one of either genus is provided with a big claw for crushing and a small claw adapted by its shape for cutting as seissors do. With these two claws they tear the food they capture into fragments and feed themselves literally ofrom hand to mouth." But there is every reason to suppose that the claws are intended quite as much for fighting as for eating purposes, inasmuch as such powerful hands are not needed for devouring the soft food they prefer. Crabs particularly are fighting animals; in fact. they will fight anything. I have seen a crab in conflict with a lobster, catch the latter over the fore part of the head, where the shell is hardest, and crush it by one effort, says a New York Sun writer. And it rather bears out my idea that the claws of these creatures are particularly weapons of war; that the moment that one of them receives severe injury in a claw it drops its connection with the body at the only one to about 46. shoulder by an act of its own will. It seems to be probable that if the claw was necessary for feeding nature would rather seek to cure an injur to it than let the animal discard it altogether.

The species of crab which is most conspicuously a fighter is the hermit crab. Its first idea of independent life is to eat a harmless whelk and occupy its shell, its next notion is to give battle to every crab of the same persuasion as itself that it comes across. Altogether hermit crabs are undoubtedly the most quarrelsome creatures in existence."
